SECTION - A - READING- (20 MARKS)

I. Read the following passage carefully and the questions that follow.

The Gazelle Boy

1.The poet and author Jean Claude Armen was travelling through Rio de Oro in the Sahara desert when he heard a tale about a boy who lived wild with a group of gazelles. Armen had heard many tales of children wandering away from home at an early age and being looked after by animals. He decided to find out.
2. His guide took him to a certain spot in the desert and left him alone with his camel to wait and watch. As the sun rose he saw a group of white gazelles moving quickly across the desert. Keeping pace with the deer-like animals was a slender naked figure. When Armen went to examine the footprints left behind, he found human prints among those of the gazelles.
3. Armen decided that, instead of trying to capture the child, he would to make contact with the child and the gazelles. He tried to do so by music. For five days he played on a small flute, sitting cross-legged on the sand. On the sixth day, one of the young gazelles approached Armen and liked his hand. Armen returned what he thought to be a greeting by licking the animal. At this, a larger gazelle and a child approached Armen but stopped short of him.
4. On the ninth day, the leader of the herd approached Armen and licked his face. The boy seemed to take this as a signal and came up to Armen and licked him on the legs and face. Contact was thus made.
5. The only sound the boy made were little cries in the back of the throat. Armen continued to watch the boy and the gazelles. They exchanged many different signals: stamping with heels and hooves, twisting the neck, moving the hands, moving the tail, ears, horns, waist, and fingers. As Armen watched he began to understand the meaning of some of the signs.
6. The distance to the food discovered by one of the gazelles was shown by stamping of feet. A single stamp of the left fore hoof meant that food was eight hundred metres away; two stamps of the left fore hoof meant that food was one kilometre away.
7. Armen watched all the other signals carefully. He managed to see a pattern in these movements, but he could not discover what the movements meant.
8. During the time he spent watching the boy and the gazelles, Armen took notes. He decided that the boy had learnt some his behaviour from the gazelles and traits of human behaviour because he was a human child.
9. When it was time to leave the area, Armen left the child with the gazelles, as he believed that to take a child brought up from babyhood by gazelles back to humans would be senseless, Such a child would struggle in vain to adapt to the life of human community.

Abou Ben Adhem

By Leigh Hunt
Abou Ben Adhem (may his tribe increase!)
Awoke one night from a deep dream of peace, And saw, within the moonlight in his room, Making it rich, and like a lily in bloom, An angel writing in a book of gold:Exceeding peace had made Ben Adhem bold, And to the presence in the room he said, "What writest thou?"-The vision raised its head,
And with a look made of all sweet accord, Answered, "The names of those who love the Lord." "And is mine one?" said Abou. "Nay, not so," Replied the angel. Abou spoke more low, But cheerly still; and said, "I pray thee, then, Write me as one that loves his fellow- men." The angel wrote, and vanished. The next night It came again with a great wakening light, And showed the names whom love of God had blessed And lo! Ben Adhem's name led all the rest.
